GET A GOOD NIGHT'S SLEEP

AN OLD doctor listened patiently while the woman in his office explained why she could not sleep at nights. The ills of the world frightened her. How could she rest with the whole universe in such a deplorable state?

Just think of it! They were not satisfied with the dreadful atom bomb. No. Someone had to build a more horrible hydrogen bomb. Wasn't it bad enough to have small planes flying over our homes? Then why do we have to have them bigger than a house and faster than a bullet? And what if flying saucers are real? When she tried not to think about these things, she remembered that there are too many babies in India. And there is too much food in America. And that made her think of the cost-of-living. She could not afford a new car. But that did not bother her as much as the fact that our highways have become speedways. And on them our young people are driving to the devil as fast as they can. But that is not surprising when you see some women's necklines. How could she sleep? How can anyone sleep?

The old doctor let her talk and talk. All of the time he hoped the world would last long enough for her to finish. Then he gave her a packet of pills and told her this little story.

Some three hundred years ago, a statesman who had some responsibility for world affairs could not sleep either. His wakeful servant saw the lighted candle in his master's bedroom. Knocking softly, he entered and found the man pacing the floor. When the disturbed servant asked what he could do, the statesman shook his head.

"It is the terrific problems of the world that keep me awake. You can do nothing about them."

"Sir," the humble servant asked. "Who watched over the world before you came into it?"

"Why, God, of course."

"And, sir, will God watch over the world after you have gone from it?"

"Certainly," the statesman answered.

"Then, sir, why don't you let him watch over it just long enough for you to get a good night's sleep?'

O. Ed Smith To Head March Of Dimes Campaign

O. Ed Smith Jr., campaign chairman for the 1958 March of Dimes Drive in Collin County, announced today that coin collectors have been placed throughout most business places in McKinney and are being placed in other towns over the county. These receptacles will remain throughout the month of January to receive contributions toward the fight against polio.

Mr. Smith observed that the national organization is concerned this year over a possible apathy among the general public toward the March of Dimes campaign. The success of the Salk vaccine in cutting down the number of paralytic polio cases may cause many people to feel that the fight is over and the need for further contributions to March of Dimes greatly lessened. Actually, the need for funds is as great this year as ever before. Research to further perfect the polio vaccine continues, and a large percentage of the population still has not taken even the first of the three recommended shots of vacinne.

A nationwide drive to encourage all persons under 40 years of age to take the Salk vaccine series apparently needs to be intensified. The March of Dimes organization, after financing the program of research that produced the polio vaccine, now has made available a program that provides free vaccine to any school child not able to afford the vaccine from a physician.

In addition to the need for money to continue the research programs for better and more effective vaccine, to provide free vaccine for school children and step up the campaign for nationwide vaccination of all people under 40, the National Foundation needs money as never before to continue its care of the thousands of victims of polio who were struck down before the vaccine was made available.

Smith hopes that the people of Collin County will support the 1958 March of Dimes campaign with the same enthusism that has been shown in the past, for the funds collected from the March of Dimes drive are very much needed this year.

County Chairman Wade Underwood joins Campaign Chairman Smith in issuing an invitation to anyone interested in the March of Dimes work to volunteer their services to help in this year's drive. Volunteer help is appreciated by the Collin County March of Dimes organization and there is much work to be done. Anyone wishing to help in this year's March of Dimes Campaign is invited to call Mr. Underwood at LInden2-4752 or Mr. Smith at LInden2-4132.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Aston and sons, Bill and Ron, of Lockney, Dick Airhart of Lubbock, Miss Ann Airhart and Mr. and Mrs. Dee Powell and daughter, Patricia, of Dallas, visited Mr. and Mrs. Jack Airhart at Valdasta during the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tilton of Blue Ridge visited their daughter, Mrs. Montine Trower in Dallas, Christmas.

NATIVE SHRUBS ADD INTEREST AND SAVE DOLLARS.

Native shrubs of ornamental value are found in all parts of Texas . . . They add interest to farm and home grounds and save dollars too.

Shrubs can be marked now and transplanted to the grounds during the winter, according to Sadie Hatfield, extension homestead improvement specialist. It's easy to spot shrubs which have attractive berries and bright fall leaves at this time of the year. It's also easy to select the evergreen shrubs you may be looking for.

Valuable native plants are often found growing in nearby pastures, old fields, canyons and breaks . . . Those found near your home will be especially well adapted to the soil and climate and will usually thrive when moved to the home grounds. They may take less care than introduced plants.

There are many possibilities . . . Examples are evergreen sumac, mountain laurel, Texas Madrona, Texas Arbutus, cedears and Arizona Cypress are found growing wild in Central and West Texas.

Shrub hunting can be fun for the whole family . . . This is the time of the year to enjoy it.

EXTRA MILK FROM SILAGE

Next to grass, silage is one of the cheapest feeds that can be fed to dairy cows. The tremendously high yields of sweet sorghums better than 30 tons to the acre in good years, make this crop popular for silage in the Southwest.

Tests on the highest producing varieties have been run at Texas A. and M. for many years, and by breeding and selection, the yields have been gradually increased.

There was a time when silage was not as popular with dairy men at it is today. It required a tremendous amount of hand labor to cut the feed, haul it to the silo filler where it was chopped, then pack it in the silo. Emptying the silo was another disagreeable chore.

But all of this has been changed. Field harvesters convert the job of row binders and silage cutter into one operation. The cut feed is hauled to the silos and dumped into the big trenches. The silage can be self-fed or it can be removed by machinery for feeding in troughs.

Dairymen who have plenty of silage this winter are finding that they obtain several extra cans of milk as a reward for their work of putting down the silage last summer.

CONTROL BRUSH FOR GRASS NEXT SPRING.

Winter is a good time to kill worthless brush in the pasture and along field fence rows. G. O. Hoffman, extension range specialist, says winter is a good time to chemically treat brush because you are not so busy and usually there are no crops growing that will be harmed by the chemicals. You can get closer to the bush at this time and can do a better job of treatment. But the most important reason is that the percentage of kill is better.

The material you will need to treat the trees or brush is an ax, a knapsack sprayer, 2,4,5-T and diesel oil or coal oil.

A ten-inch mesquite tree can cost a farmer over $9.10. It costs only five cents to kill that tree. This same tree uses about one ton of water to produce a pound of mesquite beans; while this same ton of water will produce four pounds of good grass. You know that our livestock had rather have the grass to eat than the mesquite beans and it will put on more pounds of livestock meat.

Stop by our office and pick up bulletin. No. B-800, "More Grass from Controlling Trees and Brush with Chemicals."

TIPS THAT TOP THE PIE.

It's a topping idea: Please the family with one of their favorite pies, but lavish this dessert with a frothy covering or sauce made with sweetened whipped cream or cream cheese beaten to a fluff to which fruits, nuts, sirups, coffee, and spice are added. The idea is suited to today's busy homemakers who purchase mince, pumpkin or touch with a mide-hip topping fruit pies, then add an exciting or delicious sauce.

Here are tips that top the pies: Serve pumpkin pie with orange-cheese topping. For this, cream cheese is beaten very light, sweetened, and orange rind an juice added. Chocolate velvet topping also pairs well with pumpkin pie and is a blending of cream cheese, prepared sour cream, melted chocolate and confectioners' sugar, then spiced with cinnamon.

None in the family, or at the party, is too young or too old to enjoy peanut brittle whip topping on a spicy pumpkin pie from the bakeshop.

1-4 cup prepared sour cream.
1 cup confectioners' sugar.

PEANUT BRITTLE WHIP.

1 teaspoon confectioners' sugar.
1-4 teaspoon vanilla extract.

By H. D. MOUZON

In the course of the past several weeks an effort has been made, through this series of articles, to better inform the public on the subjects of hospitals—City-County Hospital in McKinney in particular. The various departments necessary to successful hospital operation, including surgery, anesthesia, obstetrical, laboratory and X-ray, dietary, nursing and teaching, medical records, administrative, business office and maintenance, have been discussed somewhat in detail with the hope that the information thus conveyed would be of interest to the general public and would create an even closer feeling between hospital officials and personnel and those so fortunate as to have, right here at their front door, so to speak, an institution such as City-County available when needed.

At the same time, an effort has been made to give the people of this area an advance look at what they may expect in the way of even better hospital facilities once the new million and a half dollar hospital now underconstruction is completed.

Hospitals the world over have enjoyed great growth and have made remarkable progress during the past century, particularly during the current Twentieth Century, and have contributed much to the vast improvement in general health conditions. For example, the population of the United States has more than doubled since 1873 but the number of hospitals has increased more than 44 times. In 1873 there were 149 hospitals and allied institutions in the United States while in 1955 there were 6,970 hospitals with a capacity of 1,577,691 beds and 97,773 bassinets. These figures and, at the same time, are indicative of the degree of acceptance of the hospital as a worthy refuge in time of illness.

The evolution of the hospital has been alternating dark ages and golden ages but never has the hospital possessed the quality and quantity of scientific care for the sick as it has today and never before has it played so important a part in the life of the community.

In 1900 the death rate per 1,000 in the United States was 17.6; by 1920 this figure had decreased to 14.5 per 1,000, and in 1954 the death rate had dropped to 9.2 per 1,000. A spectacular drop can also be noted in the infant death rate—from 85.8 per 1,000 in 1920 to 24.6 per 1,000 live births in 1954. Looking behind these figures we find the drop can be attributed to improved public health measures, prevention of epidemics, and, what is of great importance, better hospital care.

Every two seconds today a patient enters a hospital somewhere in the United States. More than 95 per cent of all babies born in this country first see the light of day in a hospital—and statistics show that a hospital is the safest place in which to be born.

The McKinney City-County Hospital, during 1956, admitted 3,083 patients, exclusive of newborns. There were 414 live births at the hospital and the medical records department reveals that there were a total of 3,527 complete medical charts made up indicating that number of discharges from the hospital.

City-County Hospital has the facilities and personnel necessary to make any diagnosis that can be made in any hospital anywhere. Formerly it was necessary to send patients to Dallas or elsewhere for diagnosis or treatment but continued improvement in services available here make this practice no longer necessary.

Even better facilities will be available at the new County Hospital which will be occupied during the coming spring and which will be of the most modern design to be found anywhere.

McKinney and Collin County people are most fortunate to have at their disposal so modern an institution for the care of the sick where services usually found only in much larger hospitals are available at a moments notice.

In general, the hospital is looking toward the summit. It has the opportunity to serve the public with a maximum of efficiency. The public today is more willing to cooperate. It is gradually ridding itself of its old prejudies. Yesterday the patient approached the hospital with reluctance, apprehension and fear of death; today he enters more willingly, with confidence, and with hope of improved health and longer life.

The hospital is an integral part of the life of this, as well as every other, community. It has become an indispensible institution and one that renders a service to be found nowhere else. It deserves the wholehearted support of all the people.

LETTERS FROM... THE PEOPLE

REFUTATION OF NAACP BUNKUM.

It says integration of all state schools is the law of the land. Black's Law Dictionary says: Law of the land means: "Due process of law warranted by the constitution, by the common law adopted by the constitution, or by statues made in pursuance of the constitution." The supreme court is inferior to the constitution and it must derive all of its authority from it.

The 1954 Supreme Court held that though the school facilities of the Negro schools may be equal to the white school, segregation based on race alone deprives the minor group of equal educational opportunities. It did not offer an iota of evidence to prove its assertion, which Black's law dictionary says it is simplex Dictum, a mere assertion without proof. Does not that make it void. And I challenge all the NAACP and their white allies to cite any clause in the constitution to support said assertion or its conclusion that segregation is unconstitutional.

Who, except the NAACP, the leftists of our two major parties and Russia are happy over the sending of thousands of armed soldiers to Little Rock to keep nine Negroes in a white school, though Arkansas had prepared a Negro school for them with equal educational facilities, and in accordance with all of said court's decisions prior to the one of 1954, which an eminent Federal District Judge said was based not on law but on psychological knowledge. Is any court decision legal unless it is based on the law and the evidence in the case? FDR. once made a ridiculous comparison of a 4-in tail wagging a 4-foot dog. Does not the NAACP beat that? It recently claimed 300,000 members while our total population is over 150,000,000 or over 500 times that of the NAACP. But did not the Supreme Court grant its demand without law or evidence to support it, and did not it induce the president, our two left-wing dominated major parties and the Congress to endorse said Supreme Court decision? Did not that make said NAACP feel like it is wagging the whole U. S. A. of over 150,000,000 people?

Chamber of Commerce... CORNER

By PAT SIMPSON
Manager

We are rounding out our year's work at the Chamber of Commerce, and a very important committee—the Nominating Committee—is working this month. The McKinney Chamber of Commerce is governored by a Board of Directors, comprised of 21 members, who serve for a three-year period, and, who, by the constitution, cannot succeed themselves in office. The terms are staggered and seven new board members are elected each year. A president, two vice presidents and a treasurer are then elected.

It is the duty of the officers, elected by the membership, to guide the activities and set the policies of the Chamber. The Board of Directors employ the office personnel, which, at this time, is the manager and office secretary-bookkeeper. The employees are under the direction of the Board and use their time to work on the projects set up and approved by the Board .

This year, a record number of ballots will be mailed to the voting members—about 325 in all. The ballots contain the names of the fourteen members nominated, from which seven will be voted on by each member, and the ones receiving the highest number of votes will be declared the winners. Space is provided on the ballots to write in names of any members they would prefer as directors. We do not have cliques or clans wishing to get control of the Chamber activities in McKinney; but, if such should ever develop, this system would provide for the voice of the majority members to be heard.

Individual memberships whose dues are not in rarear more than 90 days are entitled to one vote; business firms investing larger amounts in the Chamber activities are allowed to have members of their business cast a vote, up to a total of five, for each multiple of $24.00 annually they are investing in the Chamber program. The election of directors and changes in the constitution and by-laws of the organization are the only times the multiple vote is used; other business of the Chamber is carried on by the directors with everyone having an equal voice.

The response to voting for directors as surprising, although we have never had a contested election. It is always interesting to set in with the Nominating Committee and hear discussion of possible directors. The decisions are never based on popularity, or by the size of a person's business or financial standing, but always on the basis of whether or not the person will take of his time and the effort to work for the good of the community.

Youths Pay For Vandalism At Frankfort Church

A group of teen-age boys and girls from Dallas county appeared before Juvenile Judge W. E. Button here Friday morning for vandalism at the Frankfort rural church, bordering the Collin-Dallas county line in the Southwest part of the county. The youths—boys and girls—ranged in age from 13 through 17.

Accompanied by their parents, an agreement was reached to pay the more than $700 in damages to the church building, after which charges were dropped. Thirteen teen-agers were dismissed when the investigation showed they had nothing to do with destruction of the church property. Nine of the group made their payments Friday and eight others have agreed to pay.

The Frankfort church had been visited by the gang on frequent occasions during the past month, each time considerable damage being wrought to the building.

Assistant County Attorney E. L. Williams assisted with the investigation. Deputies from the local Sheriff's Department, brought the youths to McKinney, some of whom had been arrested by Dallas officers.

Rotary Works For International Understanding

Rotary Clubs in 102 countries throughout the free world are united in an endeavor to promote international understanding, good will and peace. That was the message of Trent Root of Dallas, Governor of District 581 of Rotary International, in addressing the Rotary Club of McKinney Friday noon, following a conference with local Rotary officers and committee chairmen. George Webb is president of the local club.

In addition to the activities of Rotary's 9,500 clubs within their own communities to promote this objective, Mr. Root explained, Rotary International has spent more than $2,250,000 in recent years through its program of student fellowships, which enables outstanding college graduates to study for one year in countries other than their own, as Rotary ambassadors of good will. Since 1947, when this program was estabished, 957 Rotary Fellowships have been awarded to students in 61 countries for study in 42 countries, with grants averaging $2,500. Five Rotary Fellows have come from or are studying in District 581.

"With fellowship and service to others as its keynote, Rotary provides a common ground for 446,000 business and professional executives throughout the free world, regardless of differing nationalities or political or religious beliefs," the Rotary District Governor emphasized.

"In addition to the promotion of international understanding," Mr. Root continued, "special emphasis is being placed by Rotary Clubs in this District, which includes 50 Rotary Clubs in Northeast Texas, on contributions to the Foundation Fund."

Mr. Root urged the local Rotarians to attend the Rotary District Conference to be held in Dallas on Jan. 12 and 13, and to make plans for the Rotary Club to be represented at the 49th Annual Convention of Rotary International, which will be held in Dallas next June.

POET'S CORNER

WHEN ONE IS BLUE

It's hard to see the silver lining,
When clouds above are dark,
It's hard to hear the Blue Birds' song,
Or the whistle of the happy lark.
It's hard to see the goreous rose
When we look at the little green bud;
It's hard to see the silver stream
After the storm and the flood.
Look for the silver lining,
You will find it if you do;
Listen when the Blue Bird's singing
His song will bring happiness to you.
The little green bud will open its door,
And O the beautiful flower!
The muddy stream will clear again
After the passing showers.
Every cloud has silver lining
After the rain the sun comes through;
After tears and heartaches,
There are smiles and happiness in view.
So look on the bright side,
Plant seeds of live and happiness each day,
So there will be a golden harvest for others,
We pass once along the way.

Crop Stubble Will Feed Wildlife During Winter

Game birds such as quail, doves, ducks, geese and wild turkeys often have a difficult time during the winter season finding food. Ed Cooper, extension wildlife conservation specialist, suggests leaving crop stubble as long as possible after harvest as a food source for our feathered friends.

Cooper points out that crop residues plus the seed of native weeds that are available in harvested fields make one of the food sources for game birds. But, he adds, some birds, particularly quail will not utilize food in a field unless there is some cover to protest them from natural enemies. Plant stubble left in the field will give this needed protection, he says.

Rice, corn, grain sorghum and some other crop fields are especially good feeding areas following harvest if left undisturbed for as long as is possible. Native weeds and woody vegetation along field borders serve as natural travel lanes for the birds attempting to feed in a field.

Leaving stubble on the field, Cooper points out, is also recognized in many areas as a good conservation practice. The stubble aids in controlling both wind and water erosion and in holding snow in areas where snows occur.

Winter Management Is Important To Poultry Flock

Now is the time for poultrymen to recheck their management to make sure they are ready for winter weather, advises Ben Wormeli, extension poultry husbandman.

Ventilation is one of the main things to check, says Wormeli. Poor ventilation can cause trouble in laying houses. Careful attention to weather reports will enable poultrymen to adjust the poultry ventilators before severe weather hits during sudden winter weather changes.

Draft-free circulation of fresh air is necessary to keep the litter and dry litter is necessary to keep down the number of dirty eggs. The cleaning of dirty eggs requires a lot of extra labor and may seriously damage the interior quality.

Provide at least two and one-half square feet of floor space per adult bird, says the husbandman. Be sure each bird has at least four inches of feeder space and one inch of watering space. Each 100 birds will consume about six gallons of water per day.

Operators should provide 25 individual nests or three community nests, two by six feet, for each 100 birds. Fill them with a three inch layer of clean straw or other available litter. Replace any portion of the nest litter as soon as it becomes soiled.

A careful weekly check for lice or mites will enable the poultryman to apply control treatments before a heavy infestation of these parasites can reduce egg production of the flock.

TO THE PEOPLE OF COLLIN COUNTY:

I wish to use this medium of announcing my candidacy for nomination by the Democratic Party to the office of County School Superintendent. I invite all the people interested in public school education to consider my record of work for progressive school interests and activities since I started the teaching profession.

I am a native of Collin County, being a son of Ralph W. and Martha Richardson, who now reside in Blue Ridge. I was born on a farm in the Valdasta community.

I attended public school at Valdasta, Barnett, Blue Ridge, and Farmersville. My college training has been at North Texas State College, Denton, and George Peabody College, Nashville, Tennessee. I received both Bachelor and Master's degrees from North Texas State College. I have a permanent high school certificate and an administrator's certificate. My degree and certificates allow me under the law to hold any teaching position or any administrator's job in the State of Texas. I have been either in school for academic training, or as a classroom teacher, or in the field of administration continuously since I entered the profession 22 years ago.

I married Niles White in the Blue Ridge Community, the daughter of Mrs. Cassie White and the late C. W. White.

I began teaching at White Rock, three miles east of Melissa. After two years there, I moved to Melissa as high school principal and coach, served in that capacity for five years. Then I was elected to the superintendency of Melissa school which I held for seven years. In the fall of 1949 I was appointed as assistant county superintendent, the position I hold at the present time.

I have worked with the setting up of transportation systems, lunchroom programs, bond issuances, annexations, affiliations, curriculum revisions and building programs; consequently, I have been confronted with almost every problem in the realm of school operation.

I feel that the goals have been attained by hard work and constant preservance, my experience and my familiarity with school problems as a teacher, administrator and as assistant county superintendent will qualify me to render efficient service to the public schools of Collin County as County Superintendent. If I am elected to this office I shall work just as untiringly in that position as I have in the ones for which I have been responsible for the past 22 years.

For every vote that is cast for me and for every word spoken in my behalf during my campaign I shall be deeply grateful and appreciative.

Respectfully submitted,
Leroy G. Richardson.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bynum Jr. and daughters, Nancy Jean and Patricia, have returned to Bowie after a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Hardaway.

Billie Ellenburg, son of Mrs. W. L. Ellenburg, returned to Texas Tech, at Lubbock this week-end after spending the Christmas holidays at home.

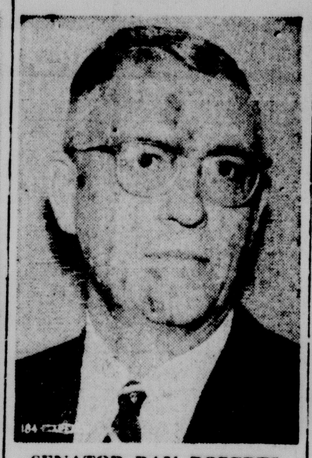
Senator Ray Roberts Will Be Candidate For Re-Election



SENATOR RAY ROBERTS

Ray Roberts, State Senator from the 9th District, announced today that he would be a candidate for re-election for a second term. Roberts who has been active in Democratic Party circles had been mentioned prominently as a possible candidate for high state office.

Roberts lives in McKinney and is an automobile dealer with farming interests. He is best known for his work as a member of the Texas Water Resources Committee, which planned most of the water legislation for the 55th legislative session and the special sessions. He was the joint sponsor of 19 water measures proposed by the committee and served as Vice Chairman of the Senate Committee on Water and Conservation. He has been concerned with maintaining the water rights of agricultural interests and of small towns. One of his proposals would permit farmers to use water from small lake water for irrigation.

Roberts is active in Naval Reserve activities and will make his formal announcement after he returns from a cruise with the Navy in February.

Roberts has also been active in teacher and school legislation and was selected at the end of his first legislative session as the senator who contributed most to the vocational teaching program.

During the 55th legislative session Senator Roberts was one of the busiest members of the senate. In addition to being chairman of the military and veterans affairs committee, he was also vice chairman of the powerful water and conservation commitete, vice chairman of the state departments and institutions committee, member of the finance committee and one of the five senators appointed to the finance sub-committee and to the conference committee which passed on all state appropriations; and he also served on several minor committees.

Roberts was a strong advocate of lobby control measures. He believes that no person should be allowed to practice before state agencies while a member of the legislature. He has been extremely critical of some lawyer legislators who accept large retainer fees from firms having problems with the state.

The 9th Senatorial District is composed of Collin, Cooke, Fannin, Grayson, Hunt, Rockwall and Rains Counties.

Portman Barker Enters Race For County Judge

PORTMAN BARKER

TO THE VOTERS OF COLLIN COUNTY, TEXAS:

At this time I am announcing my candidacy for the office of County Judge, subject to the Democratic Primary Election July 26, 1958.

I have lived in Collin County all of my life, spending several years on a farm. I have ginned cotton at Valdasta, Blue Ridge, Melissa and McKinney, and received the premium for four years straight for ginning the most cotton at Melissa.

At the present time I am Justice of the Peace of Precinct No. 1, in McKinney, being in my 8th year in that office. I have the highst record ever made in this office.

I have talked to criminals about their soul's salvation in large numbers. I think every office-holder should be a Christian man. I accepted Jesus Christ as my saviour a number of years ago, attend Sunday School and preaching services every Sunday that I can get to church.

My father moved near McKinney in 1870 from Tennessee, later he bought land in the 80's near Valdasta and lived there until his death.

I am asking the voters to give me this promotion to the office of County Judge. I have enjoyed serving the people these few years and thank everyone for their kindnesses toward me and my wife. She has worked in the office with me for these years without pay.

I hope to meet all of the voters in the county. I have met a number of you in the past.

Thank you,
PORTMAN BARKER.

Junior High Is Halfway Mark In Schooling

By H. D. MOUZON

Junior High—that wondrous in-between land from where boys and girls look back on their ward school days and think of those still there as mere children and look forward to their four years of high school as the very ultimate in human experience.

Junior High—that half-way mark between being a child and being nearly grown up, where boys and girls spend two years in preparation for their high school days just ahead.

In the McKinney school system the seventh and eighth grades constitute junior high. In some systems the ninth grade, too, is included but here ninth graders are high school freshmen. Everywhere, junior high is considered a part of the elementary school.

At L. A. Scott Junior High the 470 students in the two grades continue the same studies they pursued during their first six years in school but on a higher and more advanced plane. In addition they have the opportunity of participating in their own band in both grades and, when they reach the eighth grade, they may study choral work.

Physical education is a must for junior high students and boys who are athletically inclined are encouraged to go out for football and basketball. Capable and efficient directors are available for P. E. and the same type coaches tutor the football and basketball teams. The grid and cage teams play regular schedules with neighboring schools and it is here that local boys get their first taste of inter-school competition.

And, just like in high school, full-fledged graduation exercises are held at the close of the two-year period.

Junior high students edit and publish their own newspaper, filled with interesting items about their school and their friends and, in this activity, get valuable experience in journalism.

The seventh and eighth grade curriculum includes social studies which incorporates geography, history and some government, art and music, science, English language arts (includes reading), and arithmetic.

In social studies the pupil can make use of skills acquired in other subjects—reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic, music, science and health . . . in his study of geography, history and civics. In the seventh grade the pupil learns of the geographical, industrial and cultural influences that have brought about the development of his home state of Texas while, a year later, he turns his thoughts to the United States an dits possessions.

The art and music education program for junior high pupils has been designed to enrich their appreciation of these subjects, to provide personal satisfaction and serve as outlets for abounding impulse, energy and enthusiasm. In this connection, exploratory periods are set aside for work in ceramics and to encourage hobbies among the pupils.

English language arts includes reading, oral and written language, handwriting and spelling. The reading program at the seventh and eighth grade levels is designed to promote growth in reading power, to satisfy and broaden the student's reading interest and to improve the skills and abilities that are needed for the interpretation of worth while materials. When the student reaches the eighth grade it is necessary that he tie up the loose ends of his reading experience, so to speak, and perfect his ability to read with understanding.

In the oral and written language program for the seventh grade emphasis is placed on adding quality to the work performed. Pupils are taught to speak orally upon familiar sujects and are taught sentence improvement and grammar skills. in the eighth grade more complex problems and ideas are dealt with and the pupil is expected to develop more individualism in his oral and written work.

Because the function of handwriting is to record and communicate thought, a great deal of emphasis is placed on this subject in junior high with neatness and legibility coming in for a lion's share of attention. Spelling too, being of great importance, demands considerable attention in junior high. This subject is taught in both grades.

The purpose of the science program in junior high, as well as in all other elementary grades, is to develop understanding or concepts that will be useful to children in interpreting the scientific world in which they live and to develop an interest in things scientific. It is a most interesting course which includes experimenting and observing real applications of scientific principals.

Arithmetic courses in junior high are planned with definite ends in view. The purpose of the course in the seventh grade is to teach an understanding of fundamental processes; to develop the ability to apply these processes to life situations; to give the student an understanding of the various units of measurement; to develop an understanding of the first two operations in percentage, and in general, to prepare the student for further work in the subject. In the eighth grade major emphasis is placed on the functional use of fundamental operations in mathematics. Here arithmetic is dealt with as a tool for thinking, one that will prove of great value as the boy and girl goes on through high school and out into the world to make his or her own way.

Junior high, successfully completed, leaves the student well prepared for the four grades of high school.

Chance Of Tax Cut Is Dim; No Raise Seen

By VINCENT J. BURKE
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP). — You don't stand a chance of getting a tax cut this year unless the current "mild" recession gets much worse. On the other hand Congress isn't going to raise your taxes either.

Those views were expressed by key members of both political parties as Congress launched its most extensive study of tax revision proposals since 1953.

Five weeks of public hearings beginning today were ordered by the House Ways and Means Committee. They were expected to produce several million words of advice from spokesmen for business, labor, farm and other groups. Altogether 325 witnesses have asked to testify. In addition statesments from over 200 other groups were expected to be filed with the committee.

Committee members generally saw little chance the hearings will lead to major changes in tax law this year. They agreed Congress will continue present taxes on corporation income and certain other business levies which would otherwise drop to lower levels June 30.

In an opening statement committee chairman Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.) said the committee expects to receive "a great fund of information . . . which can lead to revision of our tax laws to the utilmate benefit of our people."

Democratic leaders scheduled the tax hearing last August when there was widespread belief the President's 1959 budget would provide sufficent surplus to justify a tax cut before next November's elections. But that was before Russia's sputniks touched off demands for stepped up defense spending.

Former President Truman's new plea that Congress boost taxes to provide increased funds for defense has picked up no visible support among House members.

"Truman is not running for election," observed one lawmaker.

Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) told a reporter he opposed both Truman's proposal for higher taxes and a proposal by Americans for Democratic Action for greatly increased spending.

Wacky Election Vote Is Tied

ATLANTA (UP). — A nonconformist caused a deadlock in the wackiest election on record in the suburb of North Atlanta.

It was to have been very simple, a mere formality, because Fred W. Haas was the only announced candidate for mayor and his name was the only one on the ballot.

When returns were made official Friday Haas had a total of 95 votes.

But apparently there had been some behind-scenes politicking. A. R. Ward's name had been written in an official 95 times.

So now it will be Haas and Ward in a run-off. Which would not have been necessary had the afore-mentioned non-conformist voted for either Haas or Ward—instead of writing in the name of Walter M. Thomas.

O. S. Scott is still confined to his home, 615 Benge Street, with a leg injury sustained December 2.

Mrs. O. Y. Ferrell and son, Doyle, of Sherman, were guests Tuesday of her sister, Mrs. O. S. Scott and Mr. Scott.

Grady Jackson and Billy Wayne Turrentine have gone quail hunting near Paducah, Texas. They expect to return home Friday night.
